DO YOU WANT TO SEE A LIVE EXECUTION ON TELEVISION?

Talk show host Phil Donahue has long been known for his shows dealing with sleazy subjects and promoting deviant and perverse lifestyles. Donahue's programs are often shown during the day when children can watch. Recently Mr. Donahue said he would like to show a live execution as part of his program. This could happen soon and would receive a lot of national publicity.

"I would be pleased to have an execution on the 'Donahue' show," Donahue told a CNBC television audience on March 8. "What's wrong with it?" He went on to add, "Let's see future bad guys watch these people fry right here on television." What follows are but a few examples of what Mr. Donahue has been airing:

4/9/92: A married man with three children discusses having anonymous sex with other men. He says, "I see it almost as a gift, because I can experience the good of both worlds."

4/16/92: A mother has a sexual affair with her teenage daughter's boyfriend. She picks him up from school, takes him home, and has an "encounter" with him.

4/22/92: A married couple discusses the possibilities of having other people over for dinner and sex. One person says, "My husband gave me permission to have sex with other men as an anniversary present."

4/23/92: A woman discusses her role as the high priestess of sex in the Church of the Most High Goddess, where sex is sacred. She says, "I have sex for religious purposes, to purify people." She has had this purification ritual with 2,759 men. Another guest says she likes to have sex with more than one person at a time.

4/27/92: A woman says her boss grabbed her breasts and discusses having sex with him on the window sill. A second woman discusses having oral sex with her psychotherapist on a towel in his office. A third woman discusses having sexual intercourse with her minister on the floor of his office.

5/5/92: The first guest talks about his mother "fondling" and "massaging" him at a young age. The next guest describes his memories of his mother. At age 3 he recalls, "She's naked and I'm lying between her legs. I thought she was wounded." Later, "She placed my head in between her legs...and she asked me to use my tongue." The third guest had intercourse with his mother at a young age. Donahue asks, "How is an erection managed under these circumstances?" They then discuss erections and orgasms.

5/8/92: A panel of men discuss the many women they have had sex with. One man, a male stripper, says in a good month he is probably with 20 different women, sometimes 2 or 3 at the same time. He estimates he has slept with over 2,000 women. Another man says, "I get their phone numbers. If I ever get horny, I just call them."

5/12/92: A baby-sitter discusses having sex with two people at the same time.

5/14/92: One man tells about having sex with a woman in the parking lot and in the dark room. A woman discloses that she had sex with two men at the same time.

5/18/92: A woman slept with her husband's brother and claimed she was raped when her young son walked in on them. Donahue quotes the man as saying he "went there to get pus--."

8/17/92: Guests included parents who encourage children to have their friends over to the house to have sex in their own home.

8/21/92: A college senior applies for a clerk position in a costume shop. The owner says, "Let me see your boobs." He tells her later he will hire her as a stripper, but that later on the girls "do a little more, sitting on faces and stuff."

8/31/92: A woman, who had sex with her apartment manager, describes him washing his genitals.

Send a message to the sponsors of the Donahue show. Tell them to stop sponsoring this trash. One of the leading sponsors of Donahue is Procter & Gamble, maker of Gleem and Crest toothpaste. A recent news article said that Procter & Gamble has increased the amount of money they are spending to sponsor Donahue even as other advertisers withdraw.

Here is what you can do to help. Call Procter & Gamble about their sponsorship of Donahue. Be polite. They have a toll-free customer service number which you can use to call. Does The ACLU Defend The Constitution?

(Does the fox guard the hen house?)

The American Civil Liberties Union says that it is "wholly non-partisan."

It advertises itself as an objective organization that is "neither liberal nor conservative, Republican nor Democrat." Instead, it is allegedly "a public interest organization devoted exclusively to protecting the civil liberties of all Americans."

But, the facts say otherwise.

Roger Baldwin, the founder and leading force in the ACLU until his death in 1981, asserted the partisan nature of his agenda saying:

I am for Socialism, disarmament, and ultimately for abolishing the state itself as an instrument of violence and compulsion. I seek social ownership of property... Communism is the goal.

Official Policy Positions
The ACLU Supports	The ACLU Opposes
Legalization of child pornography.	Voluntary school prayer.
Legalization of drugs.	Sobriety checkpoints.
Tax exemption for satanists.	Tax exemption for churches.
Legalization of prostitution.	Religious displays in public.
Abortion on demand.	Medical safety regulation and reporting.
Mandatory sex education.	Parental consent laws.
Busing.	Educational vouchers and home schooling.
Ideological testing for court appointees.	Governmental ethics committees.
Automatic entitled probation.	Prison terms for criminal offenses.
Public demonstrations for Nazis and communists.	Public demonstrations for direct action pro-lifers.
Legalization of polygamy.	Teaching "monogamous, heterosexual intercourse within marriage" in the public schools.

This attitude has marked the ACLU, to one degree or another, throughout its long history, so that legal scholar William Donohue could accurately argue that:

The ACLU's record, far from showing a momentary wavering from impartiality, is replete with attempts to reform American society according to the wisdom of liberalism. The truth of the matter is that the ACLU has always been a highly politicized organization.

In recent years, the ACLU has revealed its blatant partisanship time after time. It vehemently opposed the Viet Nam War. It demanded unilateral nuclear disarmament. It called for disinvestment in South Africa. During the eight years of the Reagan Administration, it blasted the President with one invective after another. It led the fight to defeat the confirmation of Robert Bork to the Supreme Court.

As Donohue says, "Quite simply, the ACLU has a politics, and that politics is liberalism."
